Study Abroad

 Majors in Spanish and Hispanic Studies are strongly encouraged to participate in a study program in a Spanish-speaking part of the world for the equivalent of one semester or more. Study abroad requires prior consultation of adviser, associate dean and registrar, to make sure that courses and credits earned are transferable to Lehigh. Where appropriate, Financial Aid should also be consulted. Program listings and scholarship application forms may be consulted in the MLL office. A maximum of 16 credits of study abroad (24 for the honors major) may be transferred toward the major, with a maximum of 8 credits for summer, 12 credits for a semester, and 16 credits for a year of study abroad (24 for the honors major). In order to have credits from foreign institutions count toward their major, students must obtain approval from the Spanish major adviser prior to their departure.

For more information on courses and requirements see course catalog under Modern Languages and Literature.
